

Write a good short bio for your partner - it's easy!

You know what they do and how much you depend on them.

Help us to put it into print for their special day, remember, only 100 words.

Some idea starters for the faint of heart:

Who is your partner?

How did they come to volunteer with your organization?

How long have they been involved with your organization?

What are their special talents?

What projects are they involved with?

Tell everyone about the amazing level of energy, effectiveness and commitment they provide to your organization.

THANK THEM FOR ALL THEY DO!

Suggested word count is 100.

2014 Partners in Philanthropy

AMERICAN RED CROSS RHODE ISLAND CHAPTER

ERNEST PULLANO

The American Red Cross Rhode Island Chapter is proud to honor Ernest Pullano of Clean Care of New England. Ernie's generosity of financial resources, donated space and in-kind support have helped the Red Cross respond to disasters as well as prepare Rhode Island communities and volunteers for disaster. As a long time board member, Ernie offers professional insight and a commitment to providing compassionate support and services to Red Cross clients in need of assistance. As a sponsor of the Red Cross Heroes Breakfast, Ernie helps the organization recognize and honor community partners and everyday heroes right here in Rhode Island. ♥

SEAN WELCH

The American Red Cross Rhode Island Chapter is proud to honor Sean Welch of Amica Insurance. As a board member and chair of the Philanthropy Committee, Sean demonstrates leadership and personal commitment. His willingness to lead, accept challenges and push forward, all with a smile, has helped the RI Chapter achieve its mission to help Rhode Islanders in their time of need. Sean's passion for the organization is now inspiring young people as he and his daughters have started a Red Cross Club in their hometown so that our younger generation can learn lifesaving skills and become future humanitarians. ♥

ART CONNECTION RHODE ISLAND

THE FAY SLOVER FUND

The idea of The Art Connection was founded and developed by artist Fay Chandler in Boston as she began to think about retirement 20 years ago. In addition, she established the Fay Slover Fund to assist others with a mission to increase access to art by underserved communities, Sarah Berry is Program Manager of The Art Connection, Boston where she administers The Fay Slover Fund Grants to grow the program of access to art around the world. Through her work, Slover Fund grants have supported The Art Connection-RI from the beginning 3 1/2 years ago. Sarah's enthusiasm spearheads expansion efforts as she oversees grant-making and consulting for the current five Art Connection partner sites in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, DC, New Bedford, MA and Providence, RI. ♥
